Faulting and Fracturing in Shale and Self-Sourced Reservoirs

AAPG Bulletin Special Edition
Volume 98, Number 11, November 2014

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Faulting and fracturing in shale and self-sourced reservoirs: Introduction, by David A. Ferrill, Alan P. Morris, Peter H. Hennings, and David E. Haddad

Natural fractures in shale: A review and new observations, by Julia F. W. Gale, Stephen E. Laubach, Jon E. Olson, Peter Eichhubl, and András Fall

The role of seismic attributes in understanding the hydraulically fracturable limits and reservoir performance in shale reservoirs: An example from the Eagle Ford Shale, south Texas, by Robert Bodziak, Kit Clemons, Andy Stephens, and Robert Meek

Geomechanical modeling of hydraulic fracturing: Why mechanical stratigraphy, stress state, and pre-existing structure matter, by Kevin J. Smart, Goodluck I. Ofoegbu, Alan P. Morris, Ronald N. McGinnis, and David A. Ferrill

Deformation conditions for fracturing in the Middle Devonian sequence of the central Appalachians during the Late Paleozoic Alleghenian orogeny, by Mark A. Evans, Amanda DeLisle, Jeremy Leo, and Christopher J. Lafonte

Characterization and development of subsurface fractures observed in the Marcellus Formation, Appalachian Plateau, north-central Pennsylvania, by Scott Wilkins, Van Mount, Keith Mahon, Andrew Perry, and Jon Koenig

The concept of joint saturation and its application, by Yunhui Tan, Thomas Johnston, and Terry Engelder

Failure of cap-rock seals as determined from mechanical stratigraphy, stress history, and tensile-failure analysis of exhumed analogs, by E. S. Petrie, J. P. Evans, and S. J. Bauer

Failure modes of shales and their implications for natural and man-made fracture assemblages, by Atilla Aydin

Natural fractures in a United Kingdom shale reservoir analog, Cleveland Basin, northeast England, by Jonathan Imber, Howard Armstrong, Sarah Clancy, Susan Daniels, Liam Herringshaw, Ken McCaffrey, Joel Rodrigues, João Trabucho-Alexandre, and Cassandra Warren

Geomechanics of hydraulic fracturing microseismicity: Part 1. Shear, hybrid, and tensile events, by Seth Busetti, Wenjie Jiao, and Ze'ev Reches

Geomechanics of hydraulic fracturing microseismicity: Part 2. Stress state determination, by Seth Busetti and Ze'ev Reches

Control of mechanical stratigraphy on bed-restricted jointing and normal faulting: Eagle Ford Formation, south-central Texas, by David A. Ferrill, Ronald N. McGinnis, Alan P. Morris, Kevin J. Smart, Zachary T. Sickmann, Michael Bentz, Daniel Lehrmann, and Mark A. Evans
